Why We're Lighting it Green

Bringing hope and awareness to cholangiocarcinoma.

This month, we're shining a light on cholangiocarcinoma (bile duct cancer)
a rare, aggressive disease that urgently needs greater awareness, research, and support.

Each year, more than 10,000 Americans are diagnosed with cholangiocarcinoma, and many in our community have been personally affected.

Green is the color of hope for those facing this disease. By lighting your space green, you help patients and families feel seen, supported, and never alone while raising awareness that fuels progress toward better treatments and a cure.

When you participate, tag CCF and we can share your photos with our 60,000 social media followers amplifying your commitment to our community.

Learn more at, and further advance research and patient care, by making a gift at curecca.org

Together, we can make a difference, one light at a time.
